Feb 4 (Tue) Military Records for Genealogy Research presented by Megan Churchwell.

Learn more about your veterans through military records research. Uncover your Sailor's story through military records! Military records can provide valuable information about a veteran's service. Join the Puget Sound Navy Museum's curator, Megan Churchwell, to learn about researching military service records, with a focus on records available from the National Archives. In addition to the veteran's service record itself, related records held by government archives include ships' deck logs, pension records, unit histories and more. Registration Required.
